

---

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE:

A patient levitation apparatus for a patient comprising a patient board having a patient side and a bottom, and a plenum member attached to the bottom of the board, wherein the plenum member is adapted to receive a flow of pressurized air and release the flow through a plurality of holes in the plenum member to provide a layer of air below the patient board supporting the patient.

---